H. Garretson & Co.: The Pewalic was sunk in Lake Huron, Wednesday evening, by a collision with the Meteor. The boat and cargo is a total loss. About seventy five lives were lost, includ-

of the loss of the genial and accomplished engineer, Mr. Jackson, and his excellent was overwhelming, and filled hundreds of but their place of residence was Detroit. Intense anxiety was felt with regard o Rev. W. H. Goodrich, of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, who went up the Meteor on her last trip, and stopped off on her return at the Sault, last week Wednesday. Fears were entertained that he might have taken passage, with his two daughters, on the Pewabic, but these apprehensions were in great part quieted by the statement of Mr. G.'s plan of journeying. He intended to remain at the Sault until last Monday, for the purpose of fishing, &c., and then take a Canadian steamer go to Mackinaw, cross over to Montreal, and return to this city via Niagara Falls. It may be said here that his family did not share these apprehensions. Mrs. Goodrich

The general suspense was in considerable essure abated by the publication of the following telegram from one of the owners of the ill-stared Pewabic, who was himself on board :

KILLED BY A HORSE.—The local dullness and stagnation of the past few weeks, have suddenly been swallowed up by a wave of crime and accident. What with the Bedford wife-murder, the various shooting affrays, designed or accidental, the catastrophe on Lake Huron-scores of human eings drowned like flies-the city papers have been as sensational as police gazettes. The city and vicinity have averaged at lesst one death from violence, or a very evere socident, per day for several days. Another violent death must be recorded this morning. A farmer living on the Brooklyn road was returning from the city yesterday morning, having sold his produce, when his horse took fright, as he was passing under the Mahoning railroad track. The animal gave a sudden plunge, breaking the reach of the wagon. The man jumped out, and as he caught the horse by the bits, the beast reared up and struck him in the breast, pawing him down upon the ground where he trampled upon himwife, formerly Miss Locke, of this city. A man ran to the scene and found that life was already extinct. The horse was caught hearts with gloon. The mother and nu-merous friends of this couple reside here, of the livery stables. Undertaker Howland brought the body to his establishment on Bank street. It is said that the man's name was Giles Williams, formerly in the employ of the Merchante' Dispatch. He is a widower and once lived in this city. He is apparently about fifty years of age, is quite bald and dressed in plain home-made stuff.

Pource Court.-Judge Abbey disposed of the following docket yesterday morning : Drunkenness-Daniel Austin, Thomas Farrell, Charles G. Pinckett, John Williams and Joseph Jackson, each fined $1 and costs.

Disturbance-Patrick Ready and John Murdock, fined the costs; Charles Schmitt and Joseph Merchant, $1 and costs; Michael Castler, $3 and costs; Jacob Heling, sent to the Work House thirty days. Marchand, we have already described. It is now enclosed. It has quite s fancy appearance with its elegant stonefacing and ornamental French roof. It will be the finest building on that street. Mr. John Wackerling, saloon-keeper on the corner of Seneca and Champlain streets, is putting up a three story brick building opposite the south-east corner of the Public Park. The lower part will boused for stores, and the upper stories for offices. It will present a fine front, with its ornamental stone window-caps and facings. Mr. W. colgus building a large structure, another rear, adjoining this store, reaching through o Champiain street.

J. Howland, undertaker, is building a arge brick establishment a few yards north f his present shop, on the opposite side of the street. It gives good promise. THE SIXTH CAVALEY TO-DAY .- All that is eft of the 6th O. V. C., 197 men, will arrive here on the regular Pitteburgh train at ten clock this morning. Four hundred men of this regiment, that is, all the dismounted nes, were mustered out at Petersburg, Va., nder a general order from the War Deartment, on the Fourth of July, and proneeded to Camp Chase for payment and dis-banding. Those who will come in to-day are the mounted men of the regiment. They have been under the command of Lieut. Frank C. Loveland, who arrived SPLENDID LITHOGRAPH.—There is now on exhibition in the book store of Ingham & Bragg, a magnificent lithograph of the Fuwal Obseques of President Lincoln at the Capitol in Columbus, April 29th. The august pageant has been caught and fixed by the ertist, and the work is an admirable icee of art. It was published by J. H. tuder, of Columbus.

The account is as follows: On Tuesday, August 1st, by invitation, a large number of people convened at "Lectons," the junction of the New Lis-bon and Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and hicago Railroad—about two miles south o

Chicago hairoad—about two miles sould of Washingtouville—to witness, and participate in, laying the first rail of the New Lisbon Railway. The day was auryicious and the proceedings throughout wore of a highly interesting character. The officers of the road were present, and several prominent railroad men from New York, Pennewskin and Ohio. inent railroad men from New York, Pennsylvahia and Chio.

Among those present we noticed Marvin Kent, President of the road, Wm. Lee, Superintendent of Construction; J. G. Chamberlin, chief engineer; T. B. Rilay, J. Convorse and C. B. Couch, assistant engineers; L. Kent, Secretary; Mr. Cook, Tressurer; Mr. Thorp, of Meadville, and George M. Bittambaneger, of Greenville, Pa. Mr.

He was in a franky from excessive drinking, he claims, and seeing her pass, the feverish impulse hurned within him to compel her to return, as wife, with him to this city, or kill her in case of refusal. He had taken into his mouth a thief which stole away his brains and reason, and lot a stupid devil in, and hence the rash, violent deed.

> posed to drink, standing, the health of Hon. Eben Newton, "to whose energy and perseverance, more than any other man are we indebted for the New Lisbon Bailway." Judge Newbon responded in his usual fe-lictious manner, and complimented Messra. Kent, Lee, McHeary and T. W. Kennard, of the A. &G. W. R. R., for their consummate skill in planning, executing and completing so far, a work of such magnitude which is only a part of the great whole, which is to connect the Onio River with Lake Erie. He referred to the mineral wealth lying along the whole route, and the increased value of farms which, but for this enterprise, would not be brought into the market. His deep anxiety for the road the market. His deep anxiety for the road to succeed, and the opposition of croakers he had had to contend with, had cost him in the failure to complete the A. & N. L. R. R., $13,000, but he did not care for that, now that the road is to be completed. Without a railroad, New Lisbon was growing over with weeds, but now property has advanced a hundred per cent, the countenances of its citizens looked cheerful, and all business citizens looked cheerful, and all busine had received an impetus. He was glad of English capital, and hoped that more would be furnished to complete the road to Niles, and so on to Johnson, where coal has just and so on to Johnson, where coal has just been discovered. He was seventy years of age, but he believed he would yet live to ride from Canfield to New Lisbon on the railroad. He congratulated the farmers on the market opening for their coal, and those who may grumble because they receive but ten cents per ton, should remember that without the road the coal would be worth no more than the stones that cover the land. By this experiment their land has risen in value from $40 to $500 per acre. He appealed to the President and Mr. Ruse, who represents Mr. McHenry, of England, to represents Mr. McHenry, of England, to prosecute the work to Niles with vigor, and

He would say that to Mr. Lee belong the honor of pushing ahead the work which to day we celebrate, and proposed that we drink the health of Mr. Lee, are the many asid that his forts was not in making man, said that his forts was not in making said that his forte was not in making speeches, but completing railroads, and was pleased to see the interest manifested in the N. It has become a necessity, and he can't blame passengers for preferring this road as a thoroughfare to any other. He road as a thoroughlare to any other He paid a deserving compliment to Mr. T. W. Kennard and the fibancial skill of Jemes McHenry, of Liverpool, England, to whom we are indebted for money to com-plete the road. Mr. Kennard has done more for the railroad interests of this country than any other man; and his comprehensive mind has given direction to events which have culminated in the magnitude and complete Adantic & Great Westers Railroad. He proposed that the health o J. H. R. Rose, the financial representative berlin and Judge Van Hyaing were drunk. Van Hyning was called for, and spoke enthusiastically of the N. L. Bailway enterprise, and hoped ere long that in Canfield the shrill whistle of the engine may be heard, and that the people of New Lisben and Canfield may become neighbors. He was deeply interested in the driving of the first spike, and trusted to see the same energy of President Kent put forth in behalf of the f President Kent put forth in behalf of th such a zoological collection were within the reach of his eager eyes. We have no doubt that many a thirst for foreign adventure has been quenched by Van Amburgh. He has saved many a little Crusce to his parents, and from a death in the jungle or on a barbarian shore.

What more does Van Amburgh do? He was cool, even cold, the sky a sterner blue than that of June, and the clouds, with their ragged edges, were a somewhat fierce and angry expression.
